FIIDAY, June 16. The course of prices on the Stock Exchange to-day provoked in many quarters the com ment that the limited speculation did not for the moment reflect conditions that should naturally regulate values. This criticism was based upon the view that the decision of the Clearing House to issue loan certificates is an admission of serious apprehension on the part of the banks. This is true, but it is not a complete statement or a comprehensive view of the case. The action taken by the banks is to an extent inflation, and another and more gratifying view of it is that the banks have sought to avert disaster by placing themselves in a position to utilize their resources to the utmost. They have never taken similar action heretofore until a crisis had been reached, and for this reason, if no other, their action is to be commenced. The policy adopted by the banks yesterday was not, however, as largely responsible for the advance of prices on the Stock Exchange to-day as many people seemed to think, though it was doubtless a factor in speculation. starling exchange, which carried the rates for sight drafts to within a cent a pound of the figures at which gold is ordinarily attracted to this country. Such a movement, however, may be delayed for some little time, for the reason that, although the market is full of bills, the amount is not large enough as yet to carry the rates for storling distinctly below the gold-importing point and keep them there. Still, it is possible, if not probable, that Europe will have to relinquish within the next thirty days some of the yellow metal it has taken from this country recently. The extent of that movement when it sets in will depend, to a large ex-tent, upon the actual shortage of Euro-pean crops and the ability of the United States to supply the deficiency. At the moment it looks as if this country might enjoy its usual good fortune of producing a fairly large surplus of cereals coincident with an unusually heavy demand for them from abroad. Should this prove to be the case the country may escape a portion of the severe punishment it justly deserves for perpetuating an unsound monetary

A good deal of the strength of to-day's stock market came from the covering of shorts, particularly in Atchison and Distilling and Cattle Feeding. Western advices in connection with the advance in the last named indicate that the farcical row between certain of the managers of the Distilling Company and their inate associates has come to an end. They doubtless have covered the bulk of their short contracts in the stock, and their following is now endeavoring to close its ventures. It may be noted incidentally that one of the comparatively new competitors of the Distilling Company has suspended operations. The bear campaign against Atchison appears to be drawing to a close. It was based upon exaggerated reports regarding the float-ing indebtedness of the company, which, according to the bears, will necessitate an additional issue of bonds. The amount and nature of the floating debt of the system has been distinctly set forth in an official statement to the effect that it is entirely on account of the St. Louis and San Francisco and Col-orado and Midland railroads, amounts increased since the Atchison Company assumed the obligations. The talk of a bond issue doubtless arises from the fact that under the terms of its second mertgage the company is entitled to issue $5,000,000 of series "B" bonds per annum for actual additions and improvements to the property. The management will avail itself of this privilege, but to what extent cannot be stated until after the close of the current fiscal year.

Other noteworthy movements were in General Electric, Chicago Gas, St. Paul, and National Cordage. The last enjoyed a sharp advance on light transactions, presumably because it was learned to-day that the company. as reorganized, will have not assets of about $15,500,000. This will include the $3,000,000 cash which the common and preferred stockholders will be asked to contribute for working capital, and will be about $2,500,000 above the par value of the bonds and increased issue of preferred stock. The bonds, which are to run thirty years and bear six per cent. interest, are described as sinking fund first mortgage and collateral trust bonds, principal and interest payable in gold. The bonds are to be offered to the stockholders at 85, and then to the public at a price fixed by the syndicate which has underwritten a majority of the issue, but at not less than 85. They will be subject to redemption at the rate of 3 W cent. of the issue at 105 and interest, provided the trustees cannot meet the requirements of the sinking fund at a lower price. A preliminary report of the receivers and the proposed plan of reorganization have been approved by the Chancellor who appointed the receivers, and it is now expected that both will be made public early next week.

Interest in the plan for readjusting the indebtedness of the Reading Company increases as the limit of time for assenting to the plan is approached. It is also stimulated by the opposition which has developed, and which is daily becoming more aggressive. At the close of business to-day the holders of about $20,000. 000 of the general mortgage bonds had assented to the plan, and the holders of over 200,000 shares of stock. The security holders have until next Wednesday to secure the assent of nearly $20,000,000 more general mortgage bonds and at least 250,000 shares of stock. Officers of the company and their associates who have undertaken the readjustment state distinctly that the time will not be extended, and the failure of their plan means the foreclosure of the general mortgage and a reorganfzation upon more drastic lines than those now before the public. A good deal has been said against the present plan, and some of the criticisms are well founded, especially those of the compromise, or worse, that the present management made with Mr. McLeod and his associates in the matter of his reckless and unauthorized operations in New York and New England and Boston and Maine stocks. From the point of view of the security holders, the question of accepting the present plan appears to be one of expediency, and that argument will probably carry greater weight with them than any other.

To-day's advices from Boston indicate that the banks at that centre are likely to follow the example set them by the Clearing Houses of this city and Philadelphia. It would not be surprising if they did so, since Boston is one of the larger cities that is invariably first to however, maintains its usual attitude of bragof superiority, that they have no use for Clearing House certificates; yet, within the last few weeks. Chicago banks not only drew liberally upon their correspondents here, but also begged for accommodatons. Now that their troubles have subsided, temporarily at least, they are as firm in their refusals to assist their country correspondents as they were when the alarm at that centre was most acute. One plausible explanation of the unwilling-ness of the Chicago banks to cooperate for their common advantage is that they dare not trust each other. Whatever the reasons may be, the banks of that city are rapidly losing the business and good will of country banks, as they certainly deserve to. Chicago is not bearing its share of the burden which the whole country is struggling under, and its narrow and selfish policy is certain to react upon it. It appears that the atmosphere of the stock varils has penetrated and settled in its bank parlors. Certainly, the management of its financial institutions has a distinct porcine flavor.

Money on call was more active than yesterday; yet this circumstance did not impair the tone of the market, which was strong until the last hour, when prices yielded somewhat, simply because the demands of the short interest had been largely supplied. It is hardly probable the stringency will become much greater than it was to-day, because the extremely low rates for money at London virtually insure extensive accompodations here in the form of sterling loans. As to the future of the money market, the fact should not be overlooked that July interest and dividend disbursements will probably aggregate $50,000,-000. Preparations for these disbursements may prolong an active demand for funds, but after they are made greater case should prevail. The closing of the stock market was

The depression in the Sterling Exchange marketto-day was even more pronounced than yesterday, and the rates made were the lowest for a very long time past.
